Report of Water Commissioners

The Water Works suffered a great loss by the resignation of Mr. Fred C. Sanborn, who had been connected with the board for a number of years, immediately after the 1932 town meeting was over. Mr. Omer J. Shea, a former member of the board, was appointed to fill the vacancy.

Through the co-operation of Mr. Gibbs, the County Agent, Boy Scouts, Four-H Boys and Girls, 20,000 young pine trees have been set out around the Stockwell reservoir.

Water was turned down the main line from the Stockwell reservoir on June 10th and by September 24th it had lowered so that it would not come through the upper outlet. At this time it was decided to use the water from the old reservoir rather than the bottom of Stockwell. Due to seepage through the bank and the small amount of water entering the reservoir, the supply did not last the full season. Upon orders of the State Board of Health the reservoir was drained to permit inspection and they recommended further excavation of the bottom, in order to improve the quality of the water before refilling. Proposals will be brought before the voters at the annual meeting to see what action they wish to take to correct the above.

The water rates were reduced slightly the past year, allowing 2000 instead of 1500 cubic feet semi-annually for the minimum charge of $5.00. There has also been no charges made to the town for water used in its public buildings, sewers, hydrant service, cemeteries or memorial lots.

Upon orders from the State Board of Health a chlorinator was purchased and installed, and has been in operation since January 10, 1934.

There has been about the usual run of repairs, as in the past previous years.

OMER J. SHEA,
LESLIE N. CENTER.

THE FORTY-FIFTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE WILTON PUBLIC LIBRARY

The records for 1933 show that the circulation of books in the several departments has been maintained.

Credit is due the teachers of English in the high school for stimulating an interest in reading non-fiction, thereby bringing about an increase in the circulation in that department.

We acknowledge with thanks the gifts of books and magazines.

REPORT OF THE SCHOOL BOARD

The School Board presents its report for the school year ending July 1, 1934, and its budget for the year ending July 1, 1935.

During this year the high school curriculum has been maintained along much the same lines as in years past except for the substitution of two years of mechanical drawing for two years of shop work and mechanical drawing. In making this change we were influenced by the idea that, while the boys taking the mechanic arts course would have ample opportunity after leaving school to learn the practical handling of tools, they would have far less chance to become familiar with the technical and theoretical side of mechanic arts involved in making and reading working drawings.

In years past one of the required subjects in our curriculum has been one year of economics. The economic upheaval of the recent past which has given rise to the various alphabetical bureaus of the Federal Government promises very radical changes in government and commercial practices in the next few years. We are giving earnest consideration to the idea of materially extending and broadening the course in economics and civil government and substituting it for some of the less important subjects now in the curriculum.

In the earlier educational history of New England schools, pupils were sharply divided into two classes. The great majority who expected to follow the ordinary vocations of life were considered to be amply equipped educationally if they were taught the three R's in the district schools. For the minority who expected to follow the professions, ministry, medicine, and law, the district school training was supplemented by a course of coaching with a private tutor, usually the local minister, or a few years in a private academy in preparation for college work.

When the high school was inaugurated its function was considered to be primarily that of preparing students for the higher institutions of learning and its curriculum designed for that purpose.

If a student who did not expect to attend college spent four years in high school it was with the idea that, while high school training was not very practical for ordinary walks of life, it was at least four years of education and might come in handy at some time and in any case gave the graduate a certain amount of prestige.

Only in comparatively recent years has there been a real effort to provide a high school curriculum suitable for the student not expecting to attend a higher institution and even yet there is room for improvement. Nevertheless, due to this change and to other causes, there has been in recent years a large increase in high school enrollment. The population of Wilton has not changed greatly in thirty years but high school enrollment is approximately three times what it was thirty years ago.

We believe that this is as it should be; we feel that it should be the expectation of every child entering our schools to graduate from high school and we feel that the town should so far as possible give equal opportunity to every child in town to do so.

Our state laws specify that the town shall provide transportation for every child living more than two miles from the elementary school to which it is assigned. There is no provision for the transportation of high school students because high school attendance is not compulsory. We have for a number of years felt that, in the interest of fair play and equal opportunity, the town should provide trans-portion for high school students on the same basis as for elementary school pupils.

If this meant adding to the school budget there might well be objection at a time when every effort should be made to keep down expenses. By closing our rural schools, however, we can transport both high and elementary school students and still save several hundred dollars over our present budget.

There are always objections when it is proposed to close a rural school. One is that people having children will not be attracted to that district and hence property values will deteriorate.

When the Intervale school was closed we expected to transport fourteen pupils; at the present time nearly thirty are transported from that district. We believe that the present school population in West Wilton is larger than when that school was last open.

Another objection is that children learn faster in rural schools. In many cases this is true; it should be, since the per capita cost of rural schools is much higher, being $88 per pupil in our present rural schools as compared to $50 per pupil in the grade schools. To carry this still further, Abbot Hill pupils should have made, and probably have, very rapid progress, since the per pupil cost there has been $122. As a matter of fact a teacher having a small school can push pupils more rapidly than the grade teacher teaching thirty or more. When the rural school, however, is large enough to be comparable to the average grade, it is more difficult for the rural teacher to produce as good results as the grade teacher because of the larger number of classes in the rural school.

The most serious objection to closing a rural school is that a certain number of small children must leave home considerably earlier in the morning and will be away from home until later in the afternoon than if they were attending their district school.

We sincerely sympathize with the mothers who dread being out of touch with their young children for this longer period. We can only say for their reassurance that for quite a number of years young children of this town and others have been transported to central schools and we have not heard of their suffering unusual mental or physical hardships. It is now several years since the Intervale school was closed and while at times transportation conditions have been criticized we have not been asked to reopen the school.

We have no wish to make an issue of closing the rural schools; our interest in the matter principally is that of giving to the rural pupils of high school age as far as possible equal opportunity with those living nearer the high school, and incidentally lowering school costs. We have ample authority to close the rural schools if we deem it advisable but we can furnish transportation to high school students only with the approval of the school district.

For this reason we have from time to time canvassed the districts to ascertain sentiment in regard to closing their schools. Since they were the ones directly interested we have canvassed only those having children in these schools. Not infrequently we have found this condition:

"We will be willing to have our school closed when our children are ready to go down town, but for the present would prefer to have it kept open."

This is a natural attitude but does not seem quite fair to those who already have children going down town. For this reason we feel that the situation should be presented to the school district as a whole so that it can be acted upon without prejudice.

Unless the school population should shift, there will be three or possibly four pupils in the Abbott Hill district next fall. This will mean closing the school as there seems no likelihood of that number being increased in the near future. We will have to transport these pupils. There will also be nine high school students from this district. To transport these would probably add $150 to the cost of the transportation we will be obliged to furnish but the whole cost should not be much more than half what it has cost to maintain the school in that district.

The situation at Wilton Center is not quite so clear cut. There will probably be about twenty pupils. If we keep the school open nine of these will not need to be transported. The remaining eleven, in West Wilton, we are not obliged to transport since they live within the two mile limit, but the school district has in the past approved transportation for these children. Should the school be closed, there are fourteen high school students in West Wilton and Wilton Center who we feel should be transported with the elementary pupils.

To sum up the advantages and disadvantages of closing the Center school:

The nine Wilton Center pupils of this school will not be able to lunch at home as now and will be obliged to leave home considerably earlier and return home somewhat later in the day than with the school open. Of this nine, two will be in the second grade while the remainder will be in the fourth or higher grades.

The eleven West Wilton pupils would leave home at least a half hour earlier in the morning and return somewhat later in the afternoon than at present. Among these there will be two in the first grade.

Unquestionably this would mean considerable inconvenience to parents and children. On the other hand there are in West Wilton four high school and junior high students who are being transported at their parents' expense, and in the vicinity of Wilton Center ten more who are being transported by parents or who are travelling as best they can, storm or shine, two or three miles morning and afternoon. To close the school and furnish transportation to all would mean a great help to these young people and a very considerable saving of expense for their parents. It would also save something like $350 in the school budget.

In our budget we have estimated $3000 as the total cost of transportation if both rural schools are closed. This is $500 more than we estimated last year on the basis of tentative bids made at that time and we feel is a liberal estimate. This would be a saving of $754 over this year's cost of transportation and maintenance of rural schools.

At the time we offered last year's budget our books showed a probable deficit from the budget of the previous year of $1300, of which $500 was assigned to the budget of 1933-34. We are glad to report that savings on other items have enabled us to absorb the entire deficit this year.

The net sum to be raised by the school district for 1934-1935 is estimated as $27,319.50 as compared with $26,291 voted last year. We have however included in our budget the full amount due on the school debt, $5000, instead of refunding $3000 and paying $2000 as was done last year. Hence the current expense included in the 1934-1935 budget will be actually $1971.50 less than for the previous budget.

We are glad to express our appreciation for the interest which has been shown in the work of the schools, especially in the two evening sessions, which has been an encouragement to the staff as well as to the School Board.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

To the School Board and Citizens of Wilton:

I respectfully submit herewith my eleventh annual report.

School Organization

There has been no change in the teaching staff since my last report except in the High School and at Wilton Center. Mrs. Lizzie Steele of Milford replaced Mrs. Georgianna Nichols at the Center School in October. On the High School staff Mr. John Conrad, a graduate of the three-year course at Keene Normal School, was engaged to teach Junior High subjects and have charge of the physical education for the boys including the coaching of boys' teams. Mr. Stephen P. Tracy, a graduate of Dartmouth College with additional study at Harvard University and a Master's Degree from the latter, was engaged to teach Physics, Chemistry and Mechanical Drawing in the High School and Elementary Science in the Junior High.

The Mechanic Arts Program in the High School has been changed into a more technical course by abandoning all shop work and giving two years of mechanical drawing in place of the two years formerly devoted to shop work. Otherwise the plan of studies for the boys who elect this course remains the same.

The course in mechanical drawing aims to give the students an appreciation of drawing as one of the essential means of communicating thought accurately and to develop some degree of understanding of, and skill in, the techniques used in the drafting room. It includes the elements of mechanical drawing, lettering, free hand sketching, perspective drawing, and blueprinting.

The substitution of this course for shop work is an experiment which has been going on now for only one-half year. It is too early to attempt to evaluate the experiment at this time.

The statistical tables at the end of this report are for the complete school year 1932-1933 and for the Fall Term of 1933. As compared with the preceding year enrollment shows a slight increase. Attendance last year was about 1% below the state average in the schools as a whole and 2% lower in the High School. The tardiness record two years ago was unsatisfactory. Last year it improved somewhat but the amount of tardiness is still somewhat above the state average. It was greatest in Grade One and the High School and in the latter case was due in part to transportation difficulties of those who come from outside the village and from other towns. So far this year there appears to be some gain in attendance and reduction in tardiness.

Supervision

In several of my earlier reports I have given in some detail statements of certain phases of my supervisory activities and I have spoken particularly of the use of standardized tests to measure the progress of the children in various subjects. The reading tests described in last year's report have been continued and the children have shown even better results than were reported at that time.

The Stanford Achievement Tests have been used for a period of five years, every child in Grades Three to Eight taking this battery of tests at least once each year, generally in October, and those children who do not appear to have made satisfactory progress in the Spring have been examined a second time.

The scores of these tests are stated in terms of letters A, B, C, D, and E and we expect in the long run to find approximately 7% of the children getting A; 24% B; 38% C; 24% D; and 7% E. Last October the scores for the 192 pupils taking these tests in Wilton showed 6% getting A; 24% B; 35% C; 26% D; and 9% E. This indicates that the advancement of the children in the elementary grades, so far as is measured by these tests, is just about on a par with the average school throughout the country where these tests have been used. The tests were also given to the high school freshmen numbering forty pupils; 8% of these secured A; 37% B; 45% C; 10% D; with no E's. This would indicate a degree of advancement above the average.

Medical Inspection

The medical inspection and health supervision plans this year are on the same lines as last year. The boys throughout school are examined by Dr. Powers and the girls by Dr. Rice early in the Fall. The nurse, Mrs. Gilbert, assisted both and completed the work with the weighing and measuring and testing of the eyes. She has carried out the usual program of follow-up work including the dental examination and several clinics. Mrs. Gilbert's illness at the present time makes it impossible to give a more detailed report.

Trends In Education

The effect of the depression upon the school has been less severe in New England than in any other part of the country. The primary reason for this is doubtless the fact that the depression itself has been less severe here. However, it may be that New England people are more determined to provide adequate education whatever the cost may be, within reason.

General education of all the people is intimately related to their individual success and happiness and to the prosperity and security of the country. We can accumulate wealth and pass it on from one generation to the next, and to some extent this is true of physical health and mental ability, but we can not bequeath an education to our children. The most we can do is to provide them with the means for an education. Of necessity some economies must be made, but the schools ought to be the last to feel the real pinch of economy and the first to benefit by a returning wave of prosperity.

There is a deeper significance in the present situation than the mere reduction of costs, essential as that may seem to us now. Society is undergoing some fundamental changes and these must be reflected in education if the coming generations are to receive the proper training for future social conditions. The happiness and prosperity of our successors in their time will depend upon their education and training, not only for their personal living and occupational pursuits, but in their choice of leadership and their co-operation with others in sustaining intelligent and beneficent government.

Amongst all the facts and knowledge that we must pass on to our successors none is more important than the fact of change. In the field of human affairs, as distinguishing from fixed physical facts, nothing is changeless and the speed with which changes take place is ever increasing. Only a few generations back our forefathers could pass on to their successors great bodies of knowledge with the assurance that most of it would remain as solid fact, but today we are confronted with the certainty that much of what we teach our children will be changed when they have grown to maturity. Our successors must not only know this fact, but they need to be so trained in habits of thought as to be able to adapt themselves to change and to do their part in co-operation with others in the control of the effects of change.

Necessarily this argument applies more to the field of what we call secondary education than it does to elementary education, for it is at the high school age that youth becomes susceptible to training in methods of thought and study, and it is at this time rather than later in life that habits of reasoning can best be developed in place of prejudice. From this point of view many are now saying that our high school programs of study are ill adapted to the needs of our young people. Much study is being given to this by leading educators and laymen, and it appears that we shall shortly be making changes in the direction of substitution of more material in the social science fields for some of the subjects now given greater emphasis.

In closing, I am again happy to express appreciation for the support and interest in all of my endeavors to be of service in my capacity as Superintendent of Schools.

VERNON S. AMES,
Superintendent of Schools.

HEADMASTER'S REPORT

To the Superintendent and School Board of Wilton:

I herewith submit my second report as Headmaster of Wilton High School.

Two new teachers became members of the faculty of the school this year. Mr. John Conrad, who received his preparation at Keene Normal School, with experience at Tilton, took charge of mathematics, geography, and practical woodworking in the seventh and eighth grades, with physical education and boys' athletics in the junior and senior high. Mr. Stephen Tracey, having prepared at Dartmouth, with advanced study at Harvard, undertook the classes in science in the junior high, with physics, chemistry, and mechanical drawing in the senior high school.

Class work started the first day of school, and efficiency has prevailed generally through the year. The teachers with interest and good will have assumed heavy assignments of work. They have co-operated in striving to reach an ideal of interesting classes which provide fundamental drill in essential knowledge, with interesting projects, and with insistence upon gentlemanly and ladylike conduct not only for the benefit of the class group as a whole, but also for the future welfare of each pupil so that he or she may become a good citizen in society.

Extra-curricular activities have been continued this year to provide instructive recreation to every possible pupil. Games, including horse shoes, baseball, and the like, were organized by Mr. Conrad in the fall, with teams and captains contesting for the honor of respective classes. This has been continued through the winter by a system of inter-class contests in basketball for both boys and girls.

Clubs were organized also. The French club has had interesting programs, furnishing an opportunity for pupils who like French to learn French songs, study customs of the country, and correspond with French boys and girls. The Glee club has practiced songs with parts. The Social club has enrolled a large group anxious to learn to dance and to study good social manners. The Home Economics club has put into practice ideals of worthy home membership through such activities as serving tea, holding parties, and hiking. This club is a member of the state federation of home economics clubs. The Science club has experimented with scientific phenomena of unusual nature. The Magazine club has occupied itself with the project of publishing a school magazine, the "Wiltonian."

Assembly programs have been conducted weekly in the auditorium. These have included addresses, rallies, and miscellaneous programs of home talent among the various classes and school organizations. Mr. Harold Parker, Superintendent Vernon S. Ames, Professor Frederick Holmes of Northeastern University, and Mr. Carroll Center of the American Legion have given interesting and appreciated addresses.

A fine spirit has prevailed in both the boys' and girls' basketball teams this winter. Both have enjoyed unusual success in winning many games. In addition, and of even greater importance, competition has been clean and sportsmanlike. Properly conducted athletics strongly affect school morale.

The seniors managed a successful Hallowe'en Ball in October, and presented a particularly enjoyable play, "Billie Behave," in November.

The school co-operated in the observance of Education Week with an evening session to display classroom work to parents and visitors. Even though the conditions were somewhat unnatural, a fair impression of the work being done in school was furnished to many visitors. Such contacts between the parents, teachers, and pupils are valuable.

A traffic system for passing through the halls between classes was inaugurated this year, with the result of lessened confusion and noise. It has been difficult to keep the halls from being cluttered with so many rooms opening into congested space, and a large enrollment of pupils who have no other place to keep coats, rubbers, and gym equipment. Lockers for pupils would lessen confusion, misplacement of personal belongings, and improve the appearance of the building.

Enrollment this year is approximately the same as last, with an unusually large senior class of 32 members. Attendance has been average or better. The record for tardiness, while higher than it should be, has improved considerably over last year.

Of last year's graduates, two entered the University of New Hampshire, one entered Battle Creek College in Michigan, one entered Keene Normal School, two are studying at business colleges in Manchester and Nashua, and one has entered training in the Hillsborough County General Hospital at Grasmere. Records of these students in college and normal school have been very satisfactory. Of graduates year before last two have entered training in hospitals and one has entered Bates.

Keen interest is shown in school in the proposed park and playground made possible through the Whiting gift. This should improve the appearance of the school surroundings.

I wish to extend appreciation for the kindness of teachers, superintendent, school board, and citizens who have co-operated in all activities of the school.

Respectfully submitted,

HARLAN E. ATHERTON.

AUDITORS' REPORT

This is to certify that we have examined the books and financial records of the school board and school treasurer, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1933, and find them correctly cast and properly vouched.

JOHN T. HURLEY,
